HIMALAYA RESTAURANT   MORAIRA   FEBRUARY 2013

 Himalaya Restaurant is opposite the Senieta building in the centre of Moraira. It was formerly in tiny premises on the Portet road, and moved into this current much larger place when the Japanese restaurant closed. For a while they tried silly prices, but are now back down to earth and offering good food, good value and good service. Thirty six members of the Dining group went there on 12 February. For 20 euros set group price we had three courses, half a bottle of wine, and water. We all started with poppadums and a selection of dips, then a mixed starter followed by our own choice of main course and ice cream dessert. Everybody I asked was very happy with their meal, and the service was efficient and smiley.
